Q: If you could swap lives with any teacher for a day, who would it be and why?
A: Mr. Wehnes to see what it's like being that short.
Q: If you had to survive a zombie apocalypse with three classmates, who would you pick and why?
A: Aj, Jamie, and Ivy out of us 4 we are the most athletic in the class and would be able to get along and not die.
Q: If your class had a time capsule, what's one thing you'd put in it?
A: I would put in a Mcdonalds burger to see if it decomposed.
Q: If you could go back and give your freshman self advice in just three words, what would it be?
A: Math may be hard but atleast take the hard math.
Q: What is your favorite school activity and what is your favorite memory from it?
A: My favorite school activity is probably football and my favorite memory would have to be being apart of rebuilding the football team back to a very successful team.

Réalta Leach

Q: If you could swap lives with any teacher for a day, who would it be and why?
A: Mrs Sandager, I would enjoy getting to set up the lab for different science experiments.
Q: f you had to survive a zombie apocalypse with three classmates, who would you pick and why?
A: Anna, as she is a very rational thinker and could lead us to safety. Danah, because she is resourceful and would find supplies for us. And Aj, he would be noisy enough to distract the zombies so the rest of us could get away.
Q: If your class had a time capsule, what's one thing you'd put in it?
A: A really good book.
Q: If you could go back and give your freshman self advice in just three words, what would it be?
A: Drink more water.
Q: What is your favorite school activity and what is your favorite memory from it?
A: Competitive Speech. It's too difficult to pick just one favorite memory.

Q: If you could go back and give your freshman self advice in just three words, what would it be?
A: Just let them.
Q: What is your favorite school activity and what is your favorite memory from it?
A: Volleyball, eating and watching a movie on the floor on the back of the bus with anna, danah, and berklee after our last game of our senior year

Taylor Hanna- Miles

Q: If you could swap lives with any teacher for a day, who would it be and why?
A: Ashley Nansel, because I love to help people with their problems and I think it would be fun to swap lives with her for a day.
Q: If you had to survive a zombie apocalypse with three classmates, who would you pick and why?
A: AJ and Ethan because I believe they would have good survival skills. Jamie because he would bring humor to have at the apocalypse.
Q: If your class had a time capsule, what's one thing you'd put in it?
A: A collage of our class with funny moments captured in pictures.
Q: If you could go back and give your freshman self advice in just three words, what would it be?
A: Don't Stress.
Q: What is your favorite school activity and what is your favorite memory from it?
A: It was when the cheerleaders were headed to the volleyball game in Hastings and we played the game Hear me Out .

Anna Tullis

Q: If you could swap lives with any teacher for a day, who would it be and why?

A: Mrs. Sandager, I would get to do all of the fun science stuff without doing the boring notes.

Q: If you had to survive a zombie apocalypse with three classmates, who would you pick and why?

A: Ivy, Riata, and Danah. I'd love to pick the boys for their survival skills and athleticism, but I don't trust that they wouldn't sacrifice me.

Q: If your class had a time capsule, what's one thing you'd put in it?

A: I'd put our class pictures from kindergarten and senior year, it would be interesting to see how much we had changed.

Q: If you could go back and give your freshman self advice in just three words, what would it be?

A: Just have fun

Q: What is your favorite school activity, and what is your favorite memory from it?

Probably speech. My favorite memory is when we tried to practice with Mrs. Morgan, and we spent the whole time laughing at Riata.

Danah Baldwin

Q: If you could swap lives with any teacher for a day, who would it be and why?

A: Mr. Schwarz so I could be good at math for once in my life.

Q: If you had to survive a zombie apocalypse with three classmates, who would you pick and why?

A: Ethan, Aj, and Ivy. Let's be honest these are the people that have the best chance of survival. I would probably be the one to get sacrificed but they would survive.

Q: If your class had a time capsule, what's one thing you'd put in it?

A: A USB flash drive filled with photos and videos that showcase how fun and energetic our class was, bringing to life the unforgettable moments when we were in school.

Q: If you could go back and give your freshman self advice in just three words, what would it be?

A: Don't settle

What is your favorite school activity and what is your favorite memory from it?

One of my favorite memories is from speech, when Anna, Ivy, Ella, Riata, and I performed an OID together at both district and state. In both competitions, we went head-to-head with an OID team from Potter-Dix High School. It came down to first and second place, and before the results were announced, both groups exchanged handshakes and wished each other good luck. When they called second place, it was Potter-Dix at district and state, but at state, their entire team groaned, saying, "Oh no, not again!" when we beat them for the second time claiming the State OID Championship.

Class History

August 16, 2011. A new season begins. A cast of tiny singles arrives at a mildly run-down villa known locally as Arnold Public School. Over the next thirteen years, relationships will be tested, drama will unfold, and legends will be born. These islanders may be young, but make no mistake — the stakes have never been higher.

Let’s meet the original cast:

Anna Tullis — She’s the queen of cozy nights in and has completed over 15,000 levels of Homescapes. Holding this villa together? She’s got it covered.

Jamie Tickle — Fueled by Red Bull, video games, and an undying bromance with Dawson Doggett. His sleep level? Low. His caffeine levels? Alarming.

Riata Remund — dramatic, determined, and deadly at spoons. If there’s shopping involved, consider her gone. Ethan Furne — the dark horse of the villa. Quiet confidence, sharp wit, and the type of guy who’d walk in, conquer snack time, and walk back out weighing the same as he did walking in.

Aubree Stutzman — 4-H royalty, dog show champion, and self-proclaimed pirate. A little chaos, a lot of charisma.

Will Moninger — sensitive eyes, savage comebacks. With over 100 wrestling wins before he hit double digits.

Ella Cool — She’s got bows, skirts, and stage presence for days. The villa’s never been cuter... or more chaotic.

Stokely Lewis — long locks, laid-back charm. The definition of a chill king. Just don’t underestimate the quiet ones.

Ivy Tullis — artsy, athletic, and always down for snacks. Equal parts Picasso and cross-country. If there’s fun to be had, she’s running toward it.

The journey begins in Kindergarten, and the islanders are already pairing up. Friendships form, alliances are made, and someone definitely cries over spilled milk. Under Mrs. Buoy’s reign, things seem innocent enough... but trust? Already cracking. Snack-time becomes savage. Animal crackers go missing. Tensions rise.

Suddenly — plot twist. A new bombshell is dropped mid-season.

Taylor Hanna-Miles strolls into the villa, late but ready to steal the spotlight. Drama? Inevitable.

1st Grade, hosted by Mrs. Blowers, keeps the vibe steady. Everyone’s still coupled up — for now. As the new girl’s charm faded from Taylor, she found a new and mildly irresponsible way to keep the attention on her. She jumped off the slide at the park, earning her a pair of crutches that everyone had to try.

But 2nd Grade brings a twist: Alex Mills enters the scene. Funny, fresh, and ready to shake things up.

By 3rd Grade, the villa’s chaos level is rising. Daniel Zuniga storms in, mysterious and full of main character energy, fully convinced this season is about him. And maybe... he’s right. Bradon makes a cameo, then vanishes without a word — classic “he said he’d text” energy.

In 4th Grade, under Mrs. Crow’s supervision, heartbreak strikes. Aubree is the first to be dumped from the villa. Tears are shed, bows are lowered to half-mast. But just when it seems like the drama’s cooled down, a bombshell wannabe enters the villa. He brings heat — maybe too much. AJ may have been too much for Daniel because Daniel packed up his things and leaves before Christmas. Emotional? Definitely.

5th Grade is the year of betrayal.

Riata’s thriving in the classroom... until disaster strikes on the four-square court. Taylor tags her out. Riata claims sabotage. Taylor pleads innocence. Punches are nearly thrown.

Producers were moments away from stepping in. Playground peace talks were attempted. No resolution reached. The class splits into fractions. Friendship bracelets are cut. Tension hangs thicker than the scent of Expo markers.

As the school bell rings for the last time that year, it’s clear: The villa is divided. And 6th grade? It’s only going to get messier.

6th Grade. The stakes? Higher. The math? Harder. The cast? Suddenly doubled.

Enter: Issiah Hessler and Hagan Mikkelsen — two new bombshells ready to steal hearts. Mr. Lewis takes the helm like a reality TV host with way too much power. Contestants battle it out in Are You Smarter Than a Fifth Grader?

Spoiler: they were not. Someone definitely tried to multiply letters. Someone else cried during a pop quiz. And one person asked if Canada was a state. No one’s naming names... but we all remember.

7th Grade. Junior high begins. Hormones? Rising. Organization skills? Missing. Tragedy strikes before the school year even starts — Stokely is dumped from the villa. No warning. No goodbye. Just poof — the hair, gone. But fear not. The producers send in backup. Enter three new short queens with max height: 5’ on a good day. Dolores Duponcheel, Danah Baldwin, and Ashlyn Hoskins bring the drama and sass.

Tensions were high this year, and in a tragic mistake, Riata hits Ethan in the stomach with a bat. What was the mistake you may ask? She intended to hit AJ. But just when things start heating up... Plot twist. The world shuts down. COVID hits like a surprise recoupling and sends everyone home. Friendships go remote. Zoom becomes the new villa. And let’s be honest — no one did the assignments.

8th Grade. The islanders return... but not everyone makes it back. Will, Hagan, and Ashlyn leave the villa. Anna, Ivy, and Taylor are technically still in the group... but mostly just chilling in quarantine. The class? A little smaller. The vibes? Weird. The group chat? Unhinged.

Freshman Year. Big plot twist. Aubree returns like a re-coupling redemption arc. And she’s not alone — she brings Kylee Allen, a brand new bombshell with major main character energy. High school begins. Sports? Activated. Activities? Chaotic. Test scores? Pending. The drama levels? Through the roof.

Sophomore Year. Kylee and Aubree are dumped. But just as the villa begins to mourn, a new face flies in from across the ocean. Realta Leach enters the chat — straight from Ireland with an accent and enough personality to carry the season. People are intrigued. The vibes? Immaculate.

Junior Year. Junior year opens like a filler episode — suspiciously calm.
Grades are steady.
The group chat is peaceful (well, mostly).
No hallway tears. No suspicious Snap stories.
But then... plot twist.
AJ pulls the ultimate villa move:
A mid-season exit — dramatic, emotional, and perfectly timed for winter break.
Two days later? He’s back.
Said he missed everyone too much.
The class is half thrilled, half betrayed.
Passive-aggressive hugs are exchanged. Suspicion lingers.

But let’s be honest... it wouldn’t be the same without him.

Senior Year. The final season. Same cast. New drama.
Ella, Ethan, Taylor, Danah, Riata, AJ, Jamie, Anna, Realta, Ivy, Dolores, and Alex are back for one final season.

Tears are shed in the McDonald’s parking lot after a failed effort to find a polar bear, and Jamie and Ethan become makeup artists for one night. College plans, last-firsts, and a rapidly approaching countdown to freedom. As the villa prepares for one final recoupling with the real world... The group reflects on everything they’ve done, everything they’ve survived... And all the ways they made this one unforgettable season.

Senior Assassin 2025

By: Anna Tullis
The 2025 Senior Assassin game began in peace. While the girls were off running around Omaha, all was calm. That calm continued as they were getting gas, finally back in Arnold, after their trip, until suddenly, Ethan came sprinting down the sidewalk, water gun in hand. The girls immediately started screaming, rolling up windows, and locking doors. Unfortunately, Réalta just wasn’t quick enough, and she was the first eliminated. As the group laughed and recounted the story, they were back to smiling and having fun, until they all saw AJ driving by, going North. Why would AJ be going North? They all thought. Moments later, AJ’s truck pulled to a stop in the alley, and he was running towards the cars. Once again, everyone ensured that all windows were up, and he would not get anybody out. Eventually, the girls all left peacefully, and with that, day one of Senior Assassin was over, or at least they thought.

Later that night, while many of the contestants were at the Spring Music concert, Jamie, the admin, placed a bounty with the hint, “the lookout”. Multiple people went looking for the power-up, but the first to find it was Riata. She claimed the power up and found Jamie sitting in his car at the location. She decided to sit and wait with him to see if anybody else would come looking. This was when she noticed that he wasn’t wearing his goggles and decided to place the bounty on him and get him out immediately. Lucky for Jamie, Riata forgot to film the elimination, meaning it didn’t matter. Not as lucky for him, this meant that he still had a bounty on him for the next 24 hours, meaning anybody could eliminate him.

The next day, another treaty was agreed on as the group headed down to the American Legion for Senior Tea. Nobody could get out of the building. Once everyone decided to take a picture with their goggles on (the only way to prevent being eliminated), they realized Taylor had forgotten hers at home, meaning she was vulnerable. Ella, seeing her opportunity, ran out to her car and got her water gun. Knowing that she couldn’t get her out inside the building, she hid by Taylor’s car. Unfortunately for her, the only contestant who had been eliminated, Réalta, decided to help Taylor snuck her out the back door and took her to get some goggles.

As everyone was discussing what had just happened, the guards were let down. The group had recently agreed that goggles must be worn around the neck or on your head at all times. Danah seemed to forget that rule as she was standing outside the Legion. AJ decided to use this opportunity to make his first elimination. Danah was shocked by her elimination but ultimately handed over her target.

That afternoon, a few of the girls decided to take advantage of the bounty on Jamie. They decided to hide and wait for him to get back from the golf match. With a strategic bribe, Haydn Stretesky had stolen Jamie’s goggles. The freshly eliminated Danah sat in his car to ensure that he wouldn’t be able to drive away. Ella, Ivy, Anna, and Riata hid behind a bush with their water guns. Then sat patiently until the golf van pulled up and they ran to get him. As they watched the golfers get out, they realized he wasn’t there. They told the girls that he had been dropped off at The Exchange. The girls immediately jumped into Riata’s car and went to find him. As they pulled up to the store, Jamie began sprinting. The girls drove towards him but eventually lost him in the backyard. Ella and Danah were dropped off to wait by his car, and the rest continued looking for him. They then spotted Mrs. Goodnow suspiciously driving around and assumed she had picked Jamie up and was going to take him back to his house. The girls ran back to the exchange to pick up Danah, Ella, and Jamie’s car keys. Riata called Jamie’s mom and made sure she wouldn’t let him in the house. Time was running out on Jamie’s bounty, and they had to catch him. Once they made it to his house, they realized he must have gotten dropped off somewhere else and as the time finally ran out, they drove back into town. Jamie had somehow managed to run back to the community center and hide upstairs until the bounty ran out, narrowly avoiding assassination.

Day three didn't see any new eliminations, but that night held another hunt for power-ups and multiple stakeouts. A couple of days later, after a strategic conversation with an employee at Reed's Food Center, Dolores was left vulnerable while working at the grocery store. Taylor took this opportunity to eliminate her. And that marked the end of round one. Only three had been eliminated but the action was heating up. Targets were resigned and the paranoia was back.

As Anna saw her new target she realized she had the perfect opportunity to get Riata out. After finding out she wasn't wearing her goggles, Anna drove down to Four County Boutique and eliminated Riata.

After multiple days of inactivity the players decided they were ready for some action and decided that goggles were useless nowhere was safe. That day, a massacre occurred. First, while the seniors were on a mini field trip to North Platte, Taylor was splashed with her ice water to become the fourth eliminated. Later Ethan commits treason as he lies to AJ, telling him his target is Jamie, and shoots him in the back on their way to Brew-bakers with a few choice words from AJ. Then merely hours later Jamie was hiding in the back of Ella's car to eliminate her and Ethan had moved on to his next target hiding inside Ivy's truck waiting for her sister. Immediately after eliminating Anna, Ethan was on the run as Jamie leaped out of the bed of Ethan's truck. This led to a long sprint where Jamie ultimately came out victorious. While the run was occurring, Ivy slipped away back to her house.

This was when Ivy's real strategy came out. She and Jamie were the final two competitors and she was not about to lose. So Ivy rated the app to earn an immunity shield for six hours and gave Anna her phone so Jamie wouldn't be able to track her. Once again Hadyn Stretesky was bribed to give Ivy information and, if an elimination were to occur, to film the take-down. Ivy got taken down to the golf course where Jamie was at practice and hid in his car ready to go. As Jamie stood outside his car talking, Ivy decided to go for it and opened the door, and as Jamie realized what was happening, began the chase. They sprinted across the golf course and as Jamie attempted to loop back around to his car, Ivy shot the final blow. In a fit of rage, Jamie swung his golf club at a tree and broke it. And with that, the 2025 Senior Assassin game was completed.
